PROGRAM

Speaker: Louis Paré, Chief Engineer, Near-Infrared-Camera (NIRCam), Lockheed-Martin Advanced Technology Center

Topic: It Ain't Rocket Science

Louis was born four and a half months after NASA was founded. He grew up in and with the space age. A self-proclaimed space geek from as far back as he can remember; he started building and launching rockets more than 40 years ago. He attended Texas A&M University, earning Bachelor and Master-of-Science degrees in Aerospace Engineering. His graduate research involved modeling transonic boundary layers in cryogenic gas flows. He worked for NASA, General Dynamics, and 27 years ago he joined Lockheed, now Lockheed-Martin.

Louis has supported a wide array of projects and programs including: Skylab, Shuttle, Heavy Lift Launch Vehicles, Hubble Space Telescope, Strategic Defense, missile warning systems, missile defense, atmospheric and environmental science systems and sensors, space lasers, precision pointing optical-mechanical systems, x-ray astronomy, and numerous advanced system concepts and proposals. He is currently Chief Engineer for the NIRCam instrument of the James Webb Space Telescope at the Lockheed Martin Advanced Technology Center in Palo Alto.

In addition to his professional activities he has several years of involvement coaching accomplished student teams competing in the Tech Challenge held by the Tech Museum of Innovation. Why We Should Feel Sorry For Tech Support People:

A woman called the Canon help desk with a problem with her printer. The tech asked her if she was "running it under Windows." The woman responded, "No, my desk is next to the door. But that is a good point. The man sitting in the cubicle next to me is under a window, and his is working fine."

Tech Support: "OK Bob, let's press the control and escape keys at the same time. That brings up a task list in the middle of the screen. Now type the letter 'P' to bring up the Program Manager."

Customer: "I don't have a 'P'."

Tech Support: "On your keyboard, Bob."

Customer: "What do you mean?"

Tech Support: "'P' on your keyboard, Bob."

Customer: "I'm not going to do that!"

Overheard in a computer shop:

Customer: "I'd like a mouse mat, please."

Salesperson: "Certainly sir, we've got a large variety."

Customer: "But will they be compatible with my computer?"

I once received a fax with a note on the bottom to fax the document back to the sender when I was finished with it, because he needed to keep it.

Tech Support: "All right...now double-click on the File Manager icon."

Customer: "That's why I hate this Windows -- because of the icons -- I'm a Protestant, and I don't believe in icons."

Tech Support: "Well, that's just an industry term sir. I don't believe it was meant to --"

Customer: "I don't care about any 'Industry terms'. I don't believe in icons."

Tech Support: "Well...why don't you click on the 'little picture' of a file cabinet...is 'little picture' OK?"

Customer: [click]

Customer: "My computer crashed!"

Tech Support: "It crashed?"

Customer: "Yeah, it won't let me play my game."

Tech Support: "All right, hit Control-Alt-Delete to reboot."

Customer: "No, it didn't crash -- it crashed."

Tech Support: "Huh?"

Customer: "I crashed my game. That's what I said before. I crashed my spaceship and now it doesn't work."

Tech Support: "Click on 'File,' then 'New Game.'"

Customer: [pause] "Wow! How'd you learn how to do that?"
